PROFILE

I am an innovative problem solver that likes to test and experiment with thorough analysis and evaluation, confirming ideas and creating step-by-step plans. I make sure I expand my thinking forward by partnering up with other team members who are different from me.

My contribution to the team is to create options in the form of practical solutions, evaluating and then uncovering all the factors that go into a successful plan for implementation.

Familiar working with Agile ways of working such as Scrum and Kanban, experience working with computer systems, data structures, analysing system requirements, applications architecture and developing Android as well as Web-based applications
